HAWAII HAD FIRST AEROPLANE

These Hawaiian Islands had the first flying machine. The fact is news, for never before has it been stated that such was the fact.

No less a personage than former Senator W. J. Coelha has established the truth of the assertion.

Coelha went to the beautiful island of Molokai on Sunday. He conversed fortunately, with one of the oldest inhabitants who informed him how it was that on the island of Molokai in the Hawaiian Islands the first flying machine, the first aeroplane, was used.

Near the leper settlement there is a terrible precipice. It is some two thousand feet high. At one time, between fifty and a hundred years ago, there grew at the top of the cliff a certain kind of palms valued for their usefulness in making head coverings and roofs.

The Hawaiians toiled up the cliff to collect the leaves of this marvelous palm, and to save time, instead of walking down again over the tortuous pathway, they rigged a contrivance from the palm leaves, carefully spread and reinforced by strong and twisted vine stalks, and holding this above them like a man might hold a parachute, or as he might hold on to the aeroplane, they soared gently to the earth, two thousand feet below.

They thought nothing of it, and very rarely was anybody hurt. Thus was it that Hawaii used the first aeroplane.

CRUELTY IN OPEN COURT

Examiner: Rather than ask her capitalist husband for alimony, Mrs. Mary Edith Wilcox, in her complaint for divorce against Herbert Eugene Wilcox, which was heard by Judge Conrey yesterday, stated that she was strong and able to support herself and her little daughter Ella Wheeler Wilcox, five years of age.

The woman is a frail young woman of 27, while her husband is past 55. The testimony showed that Mrs. Wilcox is at present employed as a cook for Mrs. Dora Fleming, who resides at 1212 Stanford avenue.

Wilcox first made a fortune in Hawaiian sugar, living in Hawaii 20 years, according to Mrs. Wilcox's attorney. Later he became interested in copper mines and is now one of the largest share holders in the Jerome Verde Copper Mines of Arizona, but for his wealth Mrs. Wilcox cares nothing. All she desires is her freedom and her child.

Wilcox appeared as his own attorney. So rigid was his cross-examination of his wife that she fainted while on the witness stand, and it was half an hour before she could be revived.

When Wilcox resumed his examination, Judge Conrey reprimanded him for the manner he addressed his wife.

"A frail young woman like this on the witness stand must be protected," said the Judge. "You have attempted to try your own case instead of engaging a disinterested attorney. Now you will have to behave yourself as a lawyer would. I will not tolerate such misconduct on your part."

Wilcox apologized, and the hearing continued, at the conclusion of which the Court took the case under advisement.

His stunts are amusing. His makeup assists him in his juggling feats, which, while catchy, are not the most difficult. He does them well. Jourdain and Gervaise are making an unusually big hit with their selection from the "Bohemian Girl," and tomorrow night they will render a new service.

TAKE THE TWO DAY TRIP.

Much is to be seen during two days absence from Honolulu. And the expense is trifling. The Oahu Railway and Land Company runs parties to Haleiwa, stopping the afternoon and night at fascinating Haleiwa, and the next morning takes them in carriages through the great pineapple plantations and within sight of Schofield Barracks, at Wahiawa, where the train is taken for Honolulu, arriving in the city at half past five the second afternoon. Thousands have made the trip and testify to the comfort and delight it affords. The Hotel at Haleiwa is one of the finest on the island.

To the Stockholders of Lake View No. 2 Oil Company:

Supt. O. O. McReynolds reports Well No. Two 903 feet deep, and same progressing without interruption. This well was started Feb. 12. He also reports Well No. 1 ready to resume drilling the lost bit being out of the way.

When Well No. 2 reaches the oil sand and the 8-inch casing is set, it will be necessary to wait four or five weeks for the cement to harden. At that time we can return and finish Well No. 1, and we are thus hoping to bring in two wells at about the same time.

The Standard Oil Company has laid a pipe line along our west line, the same running within 200 feet of our wells. They have also established a pumping plant within one-half mile of our property to care for the oil that is being produced by the wells in our vicinity, quite a number of which have come in since our last letter.

AT THE THEATERS

Columbians At Bijou.

Tonight and for each night during the remainder of the week, the Five Columbians will have a change of act, complete in every respect, so that no two acts during the week will be alike. This includes new costumes each night, new dances, new songs, and gives the Bijou patrons an opportunity to see little Marilyn Miller in her many pretty roles, dancing, singing and impersonations. She is one of the most graceful terpsichoreans ever seen here and it is a rare occasion when she does not receive an ovation. The Miller family is unusually gifted for entertaining the public. Lew Pistol gives a line of new comedy each night, while Tom Heath renders songs in a manner to catch merited applause. Tonight the Columbians will give comedy as the basis of their act.

Monologue at Empire.

A loquacious monologist is Whittier, of Whittier and Cronson, the two newest additions to the Empire program, for his stories run well and are clean, and raise a laugh at the right time. As singers they are good and have made a good start with the Empire's patrons. Tomorrow evening they will change their program.

The picanninies continue to amuse in their inimitable way. They sing and dance well and interpolate just enough of jokes. Regina Reed, their chaperon, who towers above them, in singing as well as in stature, is an excellent third member, and their combined voices are full of comic-song possibilities.

Savoy's Clever Juggler.

Hessie still continues to make the galleries laugh, and to the occupants of that section of the theater he is the big hit, while Jourdain and Gervaise with their operatic selections appeal to the box section particularly, their dramatic monologues and favor-
